

ABSTRACT OF THE INVENTION

A transparent electroconductive film characterized in comprising a laminate having a three-layered structure in which a transparent electroconductive layer is formed via a transparent gas barrier layer on one face of a transparent, fluorine-containing resin film.